

Professor of dermatology at CES University in Medellín, specializes in clinical and surgical dermatology. She graduated from the University Pontificia Bolivariana's dermatology program in 2004 and received her master's degree in epidemiology from CES University in 2009. She is the co-coordinator of the Colombian Group of Psoriasis and Psoriatic Arthritis (ColPsor), a group of dermatologists and rheumatologists interested in promoting psoriasis knowledge and improving the quality of life of patients who have these conditions. The group is supported by the Colombian Association of Dermatology and Dermatologic Surgery (Asocolderma). A founding member of the Latin American Society of Psoriasis (SOLAPSO), Dr. Londoño also served as editor of evidence-based guidelines for the management of psoriasis in Colombia in 2012. She has participated in various psoriasis clinical trials and has authored various articles in national and international journals.