

Antonio Martorell, MD PhD

Dermatology department. Hospital de Manises, Valencia. Spain

Bachelor of Medicine and Surgery (University of Valencia, 1999-2005) and specialist in Dermatology, Doctor of Medicine with Outstanding cum laude since 2015 with the project "Growth rate in skin cancer".

Dr Martorell is Coordinator of the Spanish Hidradenitis Suppurativa Taskforce, responsible of the Research and Development unit at the Spanish Academy of Dermatology and Venerology, member of the Spanish Group of Psoriasis, European Academy of Dermatology, Spanish Academy of Dermatology, member of the scientific committee in the European Hidradenitis Suppurativa Foundation, co-founder of the Dermus Imaging taskforce and board member of the International Cutaneous Ultrasound Society.

He is Assistant professor of Dermatology in the Catholic University of Medicine (Valencia, Spain, 2016-Ongoing), and is author of 352 national and international lectures, 221 ISI publications (181, as first author), 22 book chapters and has participated as editor of 11 books. He also founded and coordinates the Manises Hospital's Dermatology Investigation Unit, adhered to the HULAFE, with 9 multicentric projects, principal investigator of 26 Phase II/III/IV Clinical Assays (20 of them, as main investigator, 11 currently ongoing) focused on psoriasis, Hidradenitis suppurativa, Urticaria, Atopic Dermatitis, Alopecia Areata and Vitiligo

Considered a key opinion leader in Hidradenitis Suppurativa and in cutaneous Ultrasound, in 2010 he established an Ultrasound & IMID (Immuno-mediated Inflammatory Skin Diseases) Unit focused on Hidradenitis Suppurativa, Psoriasis, Atopic Dermatitis and other related autoinflammatory diseases/Cutaneous diseases associated with systemic pathologies. Currently the unit develop periodic onsite training courses for European and Non-European medical doctors to improve their skills and develop monthly webinars for this purpose (median: onsite, 5; online 8 per year).

In terms of technological R+D skills, He has developed a course in managerial skills (IESE Barcelona 2010) as well as a Tech-Com course organized by IESE as part of the ACTIVVATE grant obtained in 2018 with the project SKIANA, a project that has been supported by a SME I grant from the European Commission focused on the development of Artificial Intelligence solutions for the skin and healthcare (www.skiana.com).